WILSON CALLS FOR QUICK AID FOR THE FLOOD SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, March 26.—President Wilson today issued the following appeal for funds to aid the flood sufferers:

"The terrible floods in Ohio and Indiana have assumed the proportions of a national calamity. The loss of life and the infinite suffering involved prompts me to issue an earnest appeal to all who are able, in however small a way, to assist the labors of the American Red Cross to send contributions at once to the Red Cross at Washington or to the local treasurers of the society.

"We should make this a common cause. The needs of those upon whom this sudden and overwhelming disaster has come should quicken every one capable of sympathy and compassion to give immediate aid to those who are laboring to rescue and relieve.

(Signed) "WOODROW WILSON."

The President has dispatched the following telegram to Governors Cox of Ohio and Ralston of Indiana:

"I deeply sympathize with the people of your State in the terrible disaster which has come upon them. Can the Federal government assist in any way?"

They, however, advised him to maintain rest and to avoid any physical exertion. It was decided that on April 2 the Pope will receive some of the bishops and on April 3 give his first collective audience since he was taken ill. Later he was visited by his brother and sister. BESIEGED TURK CITY CAPTURED BESLIM, March 25.—Adrianople has fallen. The city was in possession of the Turkish army and the end of the Balkan war is at hand.

A Bulgarian regiment entered Adrianople early today, blowing up the food and ammunition depots. Shukr Pasha, the Turkish commander, is reported to have killed himself. The Adrianople garrison was captured.

The capture of the city followed the most terrific bombardment of the Balkan war. For several hours shells rained upon the Turkish forts. The other lines were taken by the Bulgarians and Serbia by Russian troops.

News from the capture of Adrianople showed the Turkish army in the Balkan peninsula.

This afternoon it was reported that Adrianople was in flames in a dozen spots, and the inhabitants were fleeing in every direction. Heavy rain fell on the city and the Turkish army was in a state of confusion.

Accidents from the front said the Bulgarians captured hundreds of Turks who were shipped to the front and then to the rear. The Bulgarians captured the city after a display of valor seldom equaled in modern warfare. They reached the Turkish defenders in face of the city.

BRIDE'S FATHER HUNTS GROOM ON CHECK CHARGES

A. H. Bradford, a Hanover hotel man, is looking for R. H. Shaw, who married his daughter Lena March 11.

He wants to have his son-in-law explain several money transactions in which he made his father-in-law as a traveling companion.

Mr. Bradford says he has about $500 worth of checks signed by the wedding bridegroom already in hand. He is apprehensive lest some more turn up later.

Kicks wanted a room at Hotel Jeanette at Hanover, registering from Tuesday, March 12. He represented himself as connected with the Independent Telephone Company of New York. His visiting was interrupted by the proprietor's daughter, Lena Bradford, during her father's absence who warned him, after a five days' captivity.

Mr. Bradford, on the arrival home, placed the forgotten parent and welcomed him to his family. Then he says, money was taken from the safe in the hotel.

Mr. Bradford suspected his new son-in-law. But Shaw denied it. Then Mr. Bradford issued his checkbook.

At a dinner given the proprietor's son of Mr. Bradford's personality as a "Turkey Trot" in the hotel.

The hotel man welcomed his son-in-law. He was given several other chances to explain some charges on his father's checks, which he refused to do.

Hunter of Harvard Lunch Room Fame Weds in Everett

Daniel James Hunter, whom Harvard students of the past few years will always remember, sending that he is manager of the Harvard lunch room, late widow no groom ever found it gay, has married his friends with the announcement of his marriage to Miss Christine Ross of Highbridge, N. J. The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Edward Davis of Everett, and Rev. Dr. Johnson of that city officiated.

The bride and groom came to America from Scotland seven years ago, and since that time Mr. Hunter has been associated with Harvard students through the management of food supply for hungry men. When he returned from his wedding trip, he will become steward of the Harvard "lunch" club, which has established dining quarters at the old Adams House, Broadway and Quincy street.

Misses Wilson Prove Experts in the 'Turkey Trot'

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The social etiquette of the year is that the Misses Wilson, headed as usual by the latest of the most devoted of trapezoids. It was the presidential daughters knew how to "Turkey Trot" as well as waltz.

Indeed, they are star "Turkey Trotters," and waltz is a trifle to them. It is the latest in the East Room will prevail as the old dance, the administration.

That the work among the most accomplished children of the South is now in the hands of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was evidenced when she accepted an invitation to attend the meeting of the Southern Industrial Education Association this afternoon.

The Arlington Town Hall auditorium has been transformed into a Spanish restaurant for the second annual ball tonight of St. Agnes' Court, Daughters of Isabella. Ten of the young ladies of the court are to give a Spanish dance in costume.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

The woman with tender skin dreads freckles and marks because they are likely to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and winds have a strong tendency to make her freckles.

Fortunately for her peace of mind, the recent discovery of a new prescription, either double strength, makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep the skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength ointment should remove them. Get an ounce from any of the Kilar-Jaynes drug stores and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR INDIGESTION, BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION.

Better than castor oil, calomel or cathartics to cleanse your stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels. Harmless laxative for men, women and children.

Primitive folk do not get laxative. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine.

We simply can't have our ten yards of bowels clogged up, liver choked with sour bile and stomach full of foul effluvia matter and feel well. It means that the food and waste retained in the stomach and bowels of bowels ferment, decompose. The decay creates poisons, gases and acids, and these poisons are sucked into the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. Then we have sick headache, become nervous, irritable, tongue coated, nervous, unable to digest, and we feel miserable all over. So we must take our choice.

We must live like primitive folk, else we must take artificial means to move the excess bile and waste matter on and out of the system.

The safest, most harmless and effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator for men, women and children is a delicious Syrup of Figs which doesn't irritate, gripe or weaken. Its effect is the effect of fruit. It is composed entirely of luscious figs, molasses and aromatics. Don't think you are cheating yourself. Syrup of Figs can be constantly used without harm.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs" and "Figs of Figs," and see on the label that it is prepared by the California Fig Syrup Company. This is the only genuine—the old reliable. Refuse with the so-called Fig Syrup imitations sometimes offered to deceive you.

THOUSANDS IN FLIGHT FROM PEACE OF RISING RIVERS

of Ohio. Floods are sweeping practically all the river towns of the State, and are adding its ravages in some of the ruined cities.

The chief area of devastation is in Dayton, where between 5,000 and 6,000 are reported dead.

More than 20,000 persons are homeless in Dayton. Three hundred thousand persons are homeless throughout the State.

From 7,000 to 10,000 are dead in the entire State, according to estimates, but these figures are based upon meager and fugitive reports.

Loss Will Exceed $100,000,000.

Partial-stricken regions are flooding from the Ohio. The property loss is estimated at more than $100,000,000. In Dayton deadening men, who saw scarce for themselves and their families, hopeless, and their loved ones rather than see them perish in the forest or die by fire or famine. Fire is sweeping the business district of Dayton, according to a report received here at 4 a. m. There was no notice of fighting the flames.

State officials are stunned by the magnitude of the disaster. Governor James M. Cox said that the Legislature would take relief measures.

THOUSANDS IN FLIGHT FROM PEACE OF RISING RIVERS

At least $5,000,000 will be needed to secure the homeless. An appeal to the entire world for aid has been issued. Every person in the State from the Ohio valley on the south to Lake Erie on the north is in danger. Dikes and levees are bursting beneath the strain of the rising waters. The climax of the disaster will not be reached until tomorrow.

The situation in this city is rapidly growing worse. The Broad street bridge, the final link between the east and west side of the city, went down at 1 o'clock this morning.

The Soloto river is rising and the situation is acute. Residents are known to be dead.

Two hundred thousands and twenty more boats arrived from Rochester last night and will be used to remove work by the police and militia.

THOUSANDS IN FLIGHT FROM PEACE OF RISING RIVERS

Families Are Separated.

Just before the Broad street bridge went down a family of father, mother and three children were lifted from the roof of a house as it floated by. Two other children lay on the roof and were lost. The entire city is in darkness and the water has separated the city into several parts, each virtually marooned from the other.

Thousands of people are separated from their families and are frantic because they are unable to reach their homes. The water rose so suddenly that they were marooned without warning.

A water famine is threatened because of the supply being cut off. The gas company has cut off the gas supply to prevent explosion. There is much suffering from the cold.

The flooded districts are being guarded by the six local militia companies. It is estimated that there are now 15,000 people homeless here. An equal number of people are living in the second stories of their homes.

Governor Cox will ask the Legislature today to appropriate $250,000 for relief.

There are reports of many men shooting their families and then committing suicide.

Some have drowned from the food was spoiled.

5,000 Drowned in Dayton.

The Mayor of Dayton, in an appeal to the Mayor of Springfield, stated that 5,000 were drowned and 5,000 homeless in that city, and that the water was six feet deep in the Union Station. Edgemoor from North Dayton and Dayton View is inundated, the water being thirty and forty feet deep in places.

Fire which started in the debris of wrecked buildings added horror to the scene of devastation in Dayton. The business part of the National Cash Register Company was reported in flames.

Large business blocks in the central part of the city were threatened and threatened to fall. Scores of persons perished when the Leonard building, opposite the City Hall, collapsed.

Dayton has been placed under martial law, and three companies of the National Guard are preserving order.

Relief is being brought to Dayton from all sides. The Springfield city officials and organized relief work last night, Governor Cox appealed to the National Red Cross Association for assistance and the Red Cross officials in Cincinnati were at once ordered to Dayton to direct the relief work.

Thousands Die for Their Lives.

The food in the Great Miami valley started with the breaking of the great Levee reservoir near Celina. Dams at Piqua and Hamilton also broke.

Governor Cox, with the sanction of the Legislature in session last night, today issued an appeal to the world for assistance for Ohio flood sufferers.

The entire State is paralyzed. Railroad, freight, telephone and telegraph traffic to and from the cities and hundreds of lives have been lost or cut off almost entirely from communication with the rest of the world.

In Dayton alone 30,000 people are homeless. The four-day continuous rain did every possible injury to the crops and the undernourished dams and poured their contents into the valleys. A wall of water seven feet high rushed down into the Miami valley. The levees along the Miami River broke and the residents of the flooded districts were forced to flee for their lives.

The water was so great that houses were undermined and sank along with the swift current. Hundreds were drowned when they were caught in the flood. The entire State is paralyzed. Railroad, freight, telephone and telegraph traffic to and from the cities and hundreds of lives have been lost or cut off almost entirely from communication with the rest of the world.

any they can in caring for the dead and homeless.

The big bridge over the Miami River at Hamilton was swept away. Victims' bodies are missing and scores of houses are floating down the river.

Cannot Reach Sufferers.

Stratford may follow in the wake of Dayton. Governor Cox has ordered the National Guard to assemble and take supplies of food and clothing into the flood-stricken areas, but at an early hour today the prospects are that the soldiers and the provisions will be unable to get within reach of the flood sufferers.

Railroad traffic throughout the State is paralyzed. The only direct connection with Dayton, Hamilton, Delaware and Piqua, is by telephone and that is intermittent. Bridges are down. Railroad and trolley tracks are washed away. Roads are impassable.

Governor Cox and his military aides were told by the railroad that it would be impossible to get troops and relief parties into the flooded district.

It was declared that the nearest they could get to the stricken region was Xenia, by telephone and that is intermittent. Bridges are down. Railroad and trolley tracks are washed away. Roads are impassable.

Midwestern, which sent an appeal for aid to Cincinnati, reported fifty persons dead and asked that merchandise be sent.

A train load of State militia was sent to the town but was unable to get through. They could see the stricken district from the train, but could not get through. They were unable to be of any assistance.

Companies of militia from the northern part of the State will assemble in Columbus today, as fast as trains can get through, and every effort will be made to get the soldiers into the stricken territory.

WORKERS, UNABLE TO REACH HOMES.

FRANTIC ALL NIGHT.

COLUMBUS, O., March 26.—Except on the North & Western road, not a train has been reported to or out of Columbus for nearly twenty-four hours. On that road, a single train succeeded in getting to the station from Portsmouth, practically annihilating the entire district.

Thousands of working girls and men, unable to go to their homes in the flooded area, have been frantic all night, adding the women along the Ohio river under water as near as the State troops on duty will permit and appealing for aid from the State.

Men, women and children are fighting in the flooded district a completely new and 10,000 are homeless.

In the city of Delaware, the Ohio River became a lake which covered most of the city. Many were drowned. People were left clinging to trees and telegraph poles, crying for assistance. Owing to the swift current in the river the work of rescue was difficult.

In Cleveland, while no lives were lost, the damage was twice $2,000,000. The Cuyahoga River swept through the manufacturing districts in the East, closed down hundreds of mills and left more than 50,000 workers idle.

The East Third street bridge was destroyed when a big steamer, the Glen Valley, ran into it and sank. The bridge was left hanging by its cables and the water was six feet deep in the Union Station. Edgemoor from North Dayton and Dayton View is inundated, the water being thirty and forty feet deep in places.

MISSING LIST

IN OMAHA GROWS LARGER HOUR BY HOUR

OMAHA, March 26.—Militaries and friends of persons known to have been living in the section struck by the tornado are now searching for every living Omaha. Many of those for whom they ask are reported missing, and as the death toll mounts up steadily, only part of the ruins under which persons are buried have been removed, and three inches of snow which has lain over the city makes the searchwork harder.

As fast as bodies are found they are placed in temporary morgues, where most of them are claimed by relatives, although some remain unidentified. Funerals and burials are taking place almost hourly, and the morticians are damaged with many cases. In the hospitals nurses are dropping under the terrible strain and the fatigue of the long hours. Many of the nurses have on duty constantly since Sunday morning, and many of them have been tired their services, are equally exhausted. The military has been almost entirely exhausted while the storm-stricken area. Looting has been prevented by the stern command of the police.

The Commonest Fault in the World

This Young Man Has It—and So Have Ninety-nine Men Out of One Hundred. How Can We Get Rid of It?

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Strand

Here is a young man whose trouble is that he can't stick at a thing and FINISH IT.

The letter that follows will be read by millions of people. And a majority of them might write the same kind of a letter.

March 16, 1913.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I have been reading your editorials for some time and think they are very helpful. I am a young man (twenty-four years old). I have one big fault, and that is that I never complete anything I do. I look back these few years with regret now. When I try to do different it seems so hard. I wish you could write an editorial on doing what one attempts to a completion. If you do write please don't mention my name. Yours truly, W. M.

There is a difficulty as old as human beings, and older. It is as old as thought.

Who can tell us how we can do what this man wants to do? Who can tell us how we can "complete anything?"

You, who read this, how many resolutions have you taken and broken? How many plans have you formed and abandoned? How many tasks have you started and left behind?

Sometimes it is a good thing for the man who is struggling to know that others have his difficulty and his trouble.

That is why it is lucky that some men who have accomplished great things have written frankly of their weaknesses. Even the autobiography of Rousseau, unpleasant and revolting as it is, may have encouraged hundreds of thousands—for it shows that man CAN succeed, in spite of the greatest defects.

It may encourage this young man who writes to know that the cure which he feels weighing upon him has been overcome by some of the successful men only after a long struggle.

Our brain, that is to say, the spirit or thinking power which works through the brain, must work for generations to come with a very defective instrument.

We have only recently risen above the plane of animal life. A hundred thousand years ago we were all howling, murderous cannibalistic savages. And two hundred and fifty thousand years ago there were only a few of us on this earth—and we were actually animals, with huge teeth and jaws, with the faintest signs of humanity about us.

We had big muscles, big bones, big appetites, great voracity—FURBLE BRAINS AND FEEBLE INTELLECTS.

And we still have feeble brains and feeble intellects. All of our physical impulses are stronger than our mental intellects. To rest, to sleep, to eat, to indulge the various attractions we have within us—such is the inheritance that we get from millions of years of animal life back of us. It is a difficult thing to teach the brain now in its infancy—TO CONTROL THAT LONG HEREDITY OF ANIMAL LIFE.

Emile Zola, the Frenchman, wrote, "Every man has within him a hog asleep." That may not be literally true of every man. But it is certain that every man has within him various animals, very much awake. Every man has in him something of the monkey—and the monkey never sticks at anything, if he can avoid it.

We all contain remnants of the various animal forms through which we have passed during the millions of years that stretch behind us.

All of these are constantly working to overcome the activity of that recently acquired power, THE FACULTY OF THOUGHT.

Every man has a big fight in this world, and only one big fight, and that is the fight AGAINST HIMSELF.

To win that is to solve the problem of the young man whose letter we print.

Many a man says bitterly as this man says, "I never finish anything." And a great many of us go down into the grave saying at the last, "I never completed anything."

But at least we can all TRY, and to try and to keep on trying, even up to the last, is TO COMPLETE SOMETHING.

An effort of the will is in itself a complete thing, although the bigger task may not be accomplished.

It is, perhaps, worth while to form the habit, if we can, of limiting our plans and our schemes, of keeping our minds off of other things until we have finished one. That advice seems good at first. Yet some of the best men have been those that changed first to one thing, then to another, then another, AND ULTIMATELY DID SOME ONE THING BIG.

It is a problem for each of us to work out inside the round walls of that "temple of ivory," the busy skull in which our brain lives. Each man must take his five minutes or his hour of solitary thought and earnest criticism, once a day or once a week, and try to force himself to his task.

Everything is an effort of the will, from getting up in the morning to going to bed at night.

We are all bound in by our little limitations. We make a little hole here, and then a little hole on the other side and then a little hole on another side—and we get nowhere.

Only once in a while some man breaks through the limitations and is able to say, "I did something."

Such a man was Archimedes, when he jumped out of the bath tub and ran naked through the street, shouting out his great discovery concerning the specific gravity of gold and other substances.

Such a man was Michael Angelo, when he looked on his finished work in the Sistine Chapel.

Such a man was Newton, as he finished the calculations that were to prove the truth of his theory of gravitation.

There have been other such men, and there will be many more. And the biggest of them is really no bigger in the eyes of justice than the small man who fails, and fails, and fails—AND YET KEEPS ON TRYING.

For no man can do anything but TRY. Only be sure that you are doing THAT—and you are doing what you ought to do.

Bidding Your Foolish Self Goodby

Bidding Yourself
Good-by

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Strand

On this page is a picture. Study it, young man, and see if you can do what the young man in the picture is doing.

In the middle picture he is walking up the steps, bidding good-by to three of his "selves" in the three pictures above.

And in the picture above, his former selves are watching him in surprise. He is bidding good-by to the self that was foolish and gambled, to the self that was foolish and drank to excess, to the self that wasted time with silly women.

And he is walking away from

Lucky the man who can DO IT today, without waiting for tomorrow. (See Editorial.)

those three worthless selves, let us make HIMSELF something worth hope, to be a better man, and to while.

The picture has a good suggestion for boys and young men.

Let them remember THAT IT IS POSSIBLE TO CHANGE OURSELVES.

Remember, that until the last day, man may get rid of the old self and start a new one.

One of the great scientists in the early days began life on an out-and-out fraud. He made his money cheating, pretending that he could change base metal into gold.

He lived to get rid of that cheating, worthless, dishonest self, and to become a real and valuable scientist.

Lucky the man who can leave his worthless self behind as this young man is doing.

And lucky especially the young man who makes up his mind to do that very thing today, without waiting for tomorrow.

Seven Million

Earth Yet to Be Penetrated by Explorers

This Undeveloped Vastness, One-eighth of the World's Area, Contains Billions in Wealth to Urge on to Self-Sacrifice Such Brave Men as Scott

By GARRETT P. BERVIS

THE brave death of Captain Scott, more even than the triumph of Captain Amundsen, has turned men's minds toward the regions of the earth which have not yet been explored.

Of the Antarctic Continent but very little is known. By pushing straight to its centre the explorers have obtained a better general idea of its nature, than they could have got by merely studying its icy outskirts. There is little doubt that it forms a vast tableland with a greater mean elevation than any other large division of the globe.

The evidences of the former existence there of a climate capable of maintaining forms of life now found only in temperate, or even tropical, lands give to that snow-buried continent a fascination that will for many generations draw adventurers to its storm-swept plateau.

Unexplored Antarctic Land
Totals 3,000,000 Square
Miles of Ice

But nearer home to say nothing of the surroundings of the North Pole there are vast unexplored lands which promise discoveries of the highest interest. It has been estimated that out of the 58,000,000 square miles of land that the earth contains, about 7,000,000 are still practically unknown, except in outline.

Of this area, 3,000,000 square miles belong to Antarctica.

A peculiarity of some of the yet unexplored regions is that they form parts of continents that have been inhabited from time immemorial, by peoples representing the highest civilizations that the earth has known. Take Arabia, for instance. It is a land of superlative mystery, lying in close touch with the coasts of ancient and modern empires of the first rank.

It is three-quarters encircled by navigable seas and gulfs. It has ports that are visited by the ships of all nations. It has given birth to a religion professed by more than 200,000,000 people. It is inhabited by races possessing splendid physical and mental qualities. It once conquered an empire wider than that of Rome, wherein the torch of knowledge was kept burning during the Dark Ages of Europe. Its area exceeds that of Europe west of the River Volga—and yet its interior is almost absolutely unknown to the world.

In the heart of Arabia is a territory, as large as Germany and France combined, that has not a single river, and yet it may not be altogether a desert. Mounted on his long-legged camel, the Arab rides over his sandhills, disappears beyond a horizon which he alone transits, and is lost to all human sight except that of his own shadow, visiting scenes of which no others of Adam's descendants have any knowledge. Those small portions of the skirts of Arabia that Europeans have penetrated are among the most singular places on the planet, but what lies back of them we can only guess.

South America, some of whose lands are coming so rapidly forward in recent years, is still full of unexplored mysteries. In Peru, Colombia, and along the upper waters of the Amazon (mighty of rivers), lie enormous forests and jungles and mountain fastnesses, filled with rich and strange vegetable forms, and with animals yet stranger—gigantic anacondas, "carnivorous" birds of marvellous plumage and wonderful vocal powers, and stores of untouched minerals and metals, among which come gold and silver, undoubtedly abundant and inhabited by tribes the names of some of which are yet unknown.

At least a quarter of the continent of Australia has never been explored. Its neighbor, New Guinea, the largest island in the world, is known only in small part, although it may be filled with undeveloped riches.

The mighty mass of the Himalayas, the loftiest of all mountains, "the roof of the world," has not been penetrated to its centre. No man has yet approached nearer than a hundred miles from the foot of Mt. Everest, which lifts its snowy head five miles and a half above sea-level. There are lofty valleys among the Himalayas, of whose existence and whose inhabitants only traditions are known.

Such is the storied valley of the Amazons, said to be ruled by women, and where men have no suffrage at all.

Money Needed for the Schools

The Boston School Committee has put in a bill, House 730, providing that the following amounts shall be added to its appropriation: Five cents in 1913, ten cents in 1914 and fifteen cents, or about $210,000 in all, in 1915 and thereafter.

This money is needed in order to provide equality of opportunity in the public schools. The pupil who can afford to keep on through the high school receives four years of the sort of training he desires. For the boy or girl who must leave at the age of fourteen, often without completing the elementary course, evening schools are now the chief provision; and it would be necessary to shorten the term even of these if this increase is not obtained; while the provision of compulsory continuation schools, giving to children between fourteen and sixteen an opportunity to see their books by daylight, must in that case be indefinitely postponed.

If this increase is not granted, many recent improvements in the direction of democracy in the public schools must be out, while all further improvement will be impossible.

The additional appropriation asked for is the price of democracy in the public schools. If you believe that the School Committee is right in asking for this increase, will not you induce your Senator and Representative and get your organization to do the same?
